

Toy town trek,

oh very funny, the location of the episode, which are really two with a long time between, The Aberdeen municipal trash dump, the dual carriageway from the north, Black dog neighbourhood watch cctv, Murcar golf course, a pedestrian underpass with colourful artworks, which doesn't exist, and a residential caravan site, further south and east, various antennae, and exhibition money controlling interests, The dunes beach front towards the mouth of the river Don, and over there the goal for economically disadvantaged Seaton Towers. But how many times will I do this disappearing text thing happen and why is my homepage now a footer,

Our Clients, probably don't have any money then, so we aren't going to be doing some business here, this wide angle panoramic above would be suitable for the whole width of the Aberdeen dump looking from the east, a fleet of robot bulldozers are pushing ash about with old tvs, fridges washing machines and PCs poking up all around, there is a thin screen of trees, yet the residential site is civilised, it looks nice and tidy

- view of sky to the NNE, with escher flock of deadly drones under the wireless relay control of a nasty old shite, who it is no one seems to know, UK Krunt himself maybe, but they appear to have media connections as well as security clearance to screw anybody around the place

- The robot dozers are blasting drones out of the sky, and both sides are enjoying a hoolie or adolescent aggression, so dangerous garbage is tumbling out of an ominous sky, hoo whoo what fun eh?

- The Toys, are under pressure to get out of the place right now, they crouch low and make a dash for the pop art underpass,

- cut to golf course planeload of investors accompanying DOnald Trump, are playing for well whatever golfers do for a bet, the toys come up into a sand bunker of

Edna says to Gazza, says isn't that DOnald Trump

they still need to make it over the dunes to the beach so there's another smartphone snapshot you can get out even if you can't play golf worth a bent ten bob note yu ... wait a minute, the executives and billionaire energy futures brokers make for the stretch limos in the car park, They power away down the dual carriageway towards ABerdeen, and the persley roundabout to get back to DOnalds private jet for the next stop on his visit his native roots tour, someplace in Ayrshire where the has another golf course apparently

- The Toys are now at the shores but looking out to sea, a flotilla of floating drones is heading this way, They dodge back into the marram grass. .

So if you can draw these sort of things like a japanese cartoonist you could take over this page and make yourself famous, then you wont need clients Only will you get there you going to be the privileged accepted asylum seekers who receive housing benefit from Aberdeen Council and will the UKIP let you be to scrub their pots. Clean the kitchen, polish their brasses, and so on, Maybe you can sneak past the snooping bums and get on a bus to some random city destination down south. Better keep your euro visa handy though the mean bastards probably wont let you stay for 90 days as the other schengen areas affluent societies are supposed to do. without
